documenting lived experiences of men in charge of others this collection creates a social and cultural history of early modern governing masculinities it examines the tensions between normative discourses and lived experiences and their manifestations in a range of different sources and explores the insecurities anxieties and instability of masculine governance and the ways in which these were expressed or controlled in emotional states language or performance focussing on moments of exercising power the collection seeks to understand the methods strategies discourses or resources that men were able or not to employ in order to have this power in order to elucidate the mechanisms of male governance the essays explore the following questions how was male governance demonstrated and enacted through men s and women s bodies what roles did women play in sustaining supporting or undermining governing masculinities and what are the relationship of specific spaces such as household or urban environments to notions and practice of governance finally the collection emphasises the power of sources to articulate the ideas of governance held by particular social groups and to obscure those of others through a rich and wide range of case studies the collection explores what distinctions can be seen in ideas of authoritative masculine behaviour across protestant and catholic cultures british and continental models from the late medieval to the end of the eighteenth century and between urban and national expressions of authority the editors have compiled this critical and comparative study of changes which took place in the new zealand education system in the second half of the twentieth century for other western societies who have felt the impact of new right policies the new zealand case is interesting because it provides some indication of how policies of decentralization in education might be used to develop egalitarian and democratic educational policies in recent years there have been major changes to educational systems in the western world often these changes have been justified by reference to successful educational practices in other countries however it is not always possible simply to abstract educational practices from one context and apply them in another successfully moreover claims that policies in one country are more successful than those in another have to be treated cautiously there are always problems in making valid comparisons between the educational performances of different countries it is important therefore that critical and comparative studies are made of educational systems which take full account of the contexts in which they are embedded the author explores common but frequently misleading themes concerning race and drug control providing an outline of uk drugs strategy from its class oriented beginnings in the nineteenth century to the present day identifying the real victims of drugs drug trafficking and drug supply she looks at the full range of drugs issues from the supply end of the drugs chain through enforcement and court proceedings to treatment approaches re addicts and other drug users
