a riveting and devastating memoir time after time reveals the slow and inexorable damage done to a child by an emotionally abusive parent it s the 1950 s the age of modern conveniences and upward mobility in a middle class boston suburb where mothers stay home to raise children and fathers take trains to the city life is peaceful but inside what appears to be a typical nuclear family one child is living a nightmare susans mother is systematically stripping away her rights her sense of belonging her activities her access to family life and her self respect until she has nothing left but food clothing and shelter her father a devout christian scientist as well as her sister brother extended family neighbors and friends witness the constant bullying and oppression her mother inflicts on her and don't know how to intervene susan realizes at an early age that she must endure her situation alone every day time after time for years to come the authors courage to survive in the face of emotional deprivation as well as her ultimate triumph commands us to speak out for the children in our midst who are suffering in silence what price would you pay to find hope and victory in the presence of your darkest moments nothing brings us to our knees more than hardships or ultimately the loss of a loved one pastor denny carr and his wife jan have experienced the unspeakable the death of their oldest child it was through this tragic event that they discovered one profound truth one can face overcome and move beyond all the pain agony loneliness heartbreak hopelessness desperation and even death itself jesus christ can move us from the darkness of despair to the light and comfort found in his presence this true story shows that deep down all of us want to believe and experience the supernatural in our present day culture we are starving to find inner meaning guidance and purpose in life this book was written as a tool that seeks to affirm what we are all searching for we want to embrace truth meaning joy assurance and victory in the midst of tragedy and heartache it can all happen for you as you read time after time in time after time david wood accepts without pessimism the broad postmodern idea of the end of time wood exposes the rich stratified and non linear textures of temporal complexity that characterize our world time includes breakdowns repetitions memories and narratives that confuse a clear and open understanding of what it means to occupy time and space in these thoughtful and powerful essays wood engages kierkegaard nietzsche heidegger and derrida to demonstrate how repetition can preserve sameness and how creativity can interrupt time wood's original thinking about time charts a course through the breakdown in our trust in history and progress and poses a daring and productive way of doing phenomenology and deconstruction from almanac of fall 1984 to the turin horse 2011 renowned hungarian filmmaker béla tarr has followed the collapse of the communist promise the time after is not the uniform and morose time of those who no longer believe in anything it is the time when we are less interested in histories and their successes or failures than we are in the delicate fabric of time from which they are carved it is the time of pure material events against which belief will be measured for as long as life will sustain it technically speaking the novel uses the first person and begins with one traditional narrator changing to two to finally sublime into pure dialogs it is the story of two eternal lovers both on their way from the time before time into the time beyond life beyond time beyond the beyond into their eternal time of two souls in one being the protagonists are the haitian eve renée marguerite dorleac born hirsch and the colombian nicolás rubén jaramillo sarmiento during their common and intensive moments in europe both belong to a land of magic where they exist above and apart from reality both are possessed of each other and are protected by a set of wise and benevolent loas called rada the key years of the pilgrimage are 1968 1988 and 2008
